THE BLUEPRINT

In 2009, the Fur Farm Intelligence Project was launched to map out the entire supply-side of the fur farming industry – from mink farms to feed suppliers. Our first report - The Blueprint - represented the largest collection of fur farm intelligence to date.

In 2012, the FFIP reformed as Coalition Against Fur Farms. This is our first report under the new name. This document brings together the largest list of new fur farm addresses released since the 1990s, representing two years of research.

Included are:

- *Over 60 new mink farm addresses
- *Over 90 (possible) fox farm addresses
- *Five new feed suppliers
- *One new, major pelt processor.
- *New leads on mink research labs

...and much more.

In addition to addresses, Coalition Against Fur Farms is adding to the mission by tracking other changes in the fur industry. This includes numbers of animals on farms, identifying key players in the fur industry, posting sensitive fur industry documents, and more. Included in this supplement is a new section on non-address-related fur farming intel.

Please support our mission to map the entire fur industry by investigating a fur farm in your area. View our "most wanted" list on the CAFF site for a list of farms that need investigating.

If you have any new information new fur farms or suppliers, please submit to:

INTELLIGENCE PROJECTIS NOW

COALITION AGAINST FURFARMS

From 1990 to today

The original Coalition Against Fur Farms (CAFF) was founded in 1990 at the US fur industry's lowest point. The group launched to finish it off through the dissemination of damning footage inside fur farms and releasing leaked documents detailing the inner-workings of the US fur industry.

In 2012, Coalition Against Fur Farms has relaunched by all new volunteers to pick up where the past incarnation of CAFF left off, making public the inner-workings of the US fur industry through the broadcasting of addresses of fur farms and internal documents on fur farming.

Mapping the fur industry

CAFF's website and publications will function as a clearinghouse for all fur industry-related intel, with an emphasis on farms and the suppliers that support them. Through the posting of sensitive data, we will build a comprehensive atlas of every tentacle in the fur industry.

Identifying weak links

CAFF volunteers are studying every available fur industry data source to identify weak links in the industry, allowing for more efficient anti-fur campaigns. Our latest findings are posted on the "Weak Links" page.

Tracking changes

CAFF will also function to track all known changes in the fur farming industry, from changes in farm ownership to farm closures and more. Our goal: broadcasting up-to-date data on every facet of the US fur farming industry farm addresses, suppliers, fur farm closures, key players, and more. "Please inform your local law enforcement agency of the.... postings that appear on www. coalitionagainstfurfarms.com."

Fur Farming Industry Updates for 2012

The following is information compiled over the last two years by volunteers with Final Nail (www.finalnail.com) and Coalition Against Fur Farms

Number of animals at largest lynx farm: This is the number of animal skins sold by Corey Richwine of Fraser Fur Farm (Ronan, MT) at an auction in February. Coyotes: 43, red fox: 9, cross fox: 2, bobcats: 87.

Wisconsin increases production:

Wisconsin fur farmers killed 1.1 million mink. That is a full 19% more than 2010 – a huge increase.

Fur farmers receive "security bulletin" about CAFF: Within months of forming, the Fur commission USA issued a security bulletin to fur farms warning them of the new website posting fur farm addresses. The state: "We believe that the farm information is gathered through business filings, in addition to satellite and on-the-ground reconnaissance."

Update on bobcat and lynx farm: In the last Blueprint supplement, an address was published for a bobcat and lynx farm. CAFF has learned this farm breeds animals for pets, not fur. The farm is: George Lentz, 1920 Whitefish Stage Road, Kalispell, MT 59901

Wolf confirmed at WA fur farm: CAFF has learned that a wolf has been confirmed to be held captive in an outdoor pen at United Farms in Graham, WA.

New head vet at Utah feed plant:

Dr. Austin Larsen took over veterinary research duties at the Fur Breeder's Agricultural Cooperative based in Sandy, Utah.

Fire completely destroys largest mink feed cooperative: The Fur Breeder's Agricultural Cooperative in Sandy, Utah was completely destroyed by an accidental fire. A CAFF on-site investigation revealed that the building has been condemned and is slated to be demolished. Presumably, the FBAC plant in Logan is picking up the slack.

Three possible fox farmers: A fur industry publication revealed the names of three possible fox farmers. CAFF is seeking any information on the location of farms owned by Tim Allaman, Lloyd Bussiere, and Lyle Reap; states unknown.

Document reveales anatomy of the Fur Commission: In May, CAFF obtained a document titled "SYNOP-SIS OF FCUSA's PROGRAMS", which breaks down the complete anatomy of the fur trade group.

Possible fur farm in Idaho: At the American Legend May 2011 auction, one of the top lots was listed as being produced by "The Becksteads of Lehi, Utah, and Weston, Idaho." We are seeking information on the wherabouts of this farm.

Idaho mink
farm supplying mink
research lab:
CAFF learned in June that
Idaho State University mink
researchers
Jack Rose is supplied mink by the Moyle Mink Company, also of Idaho.

List of fox farm suppliers revealed:

In June, CAFF published a list of every major fox farm supplier on its wesbite. Because fox farming is such a small industry, every company on the list is considered significant.

Mink vaccine shortage threatens farmers: Representatives from the Fur Commission visited a Nebraska mink vaccine facility after a recent shortage sent farmers, who name disease as the second biggest threat to their business (after animal rights activists), into a panic. The only two vaccine manufacturers are Merck (research done in Elkhorn, NE) and United Vaccines (of Fitchburg, WI).

Last fur farm in Alaska confirmed closed: A recent book titled "The Fur Farms of Alaska" reports that the last Farms of Alaska" reports that the last fur farm in the state closed in 1993.

Mink farm to double in size: It was reported that Smith Furs in Malta, Idaho intents to double in size next year, to 28,000 mink.

Possible fur farms reported in Missouri: Department of Wildlife documents report over a dozen possible fur farms in MO. CAFF posted on our site three documents listing address for farms that imprison bobcats, foxes, and wolves.

Number of animals at lowa fur farm confirmed: The USDA is reporting the following animals are held at Ruby Fur Farm in 2011: 1,500 ferrets, 1,000 striped skunks, 350 racoons, 30 grey fox.

New info on Oregon mink farm: The Stunkard Farm near Astoria, Oregon is reported to imprison 8.400 mink.

Last farm in Maryland closed: The last known mink farm in Maryland, the Parson's Mink Ranch, has been confirmed as closed.

USDA announces end to fur farm data collection: Citing budget issues, the USDA has stated they will no longer collect statistical data about US fur farms, including the reporting the number of farms.

Fur Breeder's Co-op once owned CA plant: A document obtained by CAFF revealed that for many years, the country's largest feed cooperative (FBAC) in Utah owned a fish processing plant near Eureka, CA. The plant now appears to be closed, It is not known if the FBAC has reinvested in another plant elsewhere.

New manager at Northwest Farm

Foods: Jim Rowe has replaced Vern Peterson as General Manager at Northwest Farm Food Co-op, based in Burlington, Washington.

Fur Harvesters Auction opens plant in Wisconsin: FHA is an auction house catering to, and specializing in, wild-trapped animals. Headquartered in Ontario, the auction house has opened a receiving and grading facility in Cambridge, Wisconsin. This represents a major chokepoint for the US trapping industry.

List of key employees at North American Fur Auctions: In September, CAFF posted the names and positions of key employees at NAFA: Mike Balaam: Manager; Craig Oler: Maintenance / Supervisor; Laura Chicaizza: Assistant Manager; Brett Johnson: Maintenance Manager; Virgil Schroeder: Wild Fur Coordinator; Jim Posch: Mink Technical Manager; Dave Mengar: Shipping; Carmen Torres: Receiving; Amanda Bujosa: Ticketing; Mark Kubitz: Mink; Joe Poquette: Mink; Tom Gibson: Mink; Brian MacMillan: Wild Fur.

Problems for fur retailers: According to a tip received by CAFF, the Fur Information Council (fur retailer trade group) is having serious problems, so serious that FICA is having trouble paying its debts and there are fears that the organization will not survive

List of NAFA pelt dropoff locations:

In September, CAFF obtained a list of all "wild fur receiving depots" for North American Fur Auctions, the largest wild fur auction house in North America. It can be viewed on the Coalition Against Fur Farms website.

Idaho mink farm threatens neighbors with foreclosure: Bob and Bev Reudter, neighbors of the Ball Brothers mink farm in Malad, Utah; told the Idaho State Journal they may lose their home because the farm has devalued neighboring properties so severely.

United Vaccines expands their headquarters in Wisconsin: Coalition Against Fur Farms posted the paperwork filed with the town of Fitchburg, requesting permission to expand their main production facility. Illinois mink farmer dies: Sandy Parker Reports mentioned the death of Charles Ide, and revealed that his fur farm may have closed in 1997.

Hundreds of possible fur farms posted on Coalition Against Fur Farm site: CAFF has posted the addresses of hundreds of previously-unknown operations confirmed to imprison foxes, coyotes, and / or bobcats. Obtained from public records, it is not known what the function of the operations are - whether fur, or other purpose. Pending further investigation, the farms are not being included here, but are available on the CAFF site.

Closed and decaying mink farm in Wisconsin

WEAKLINKS ACOALITION AGAINST FUR FARMS REPORT

A synopsis of the weakest links in the US fur industry.

Feed suppliers

Feed is the single biggest expense in raising mink. Even a small increase in feed costs would destroy many – if not most – fur farms. As an example, when the Fur Breeder's Agricultural Cooperative stopped delivering to a small town in Utah (forcing them to use another supplier or make their own), at least two fur farms there were forced to close.

Mink research

The Fur Commission USA spends a full 25% of its budget on mink farming research. Through research into feed, disease, pelt quality, and more, the US fur industry maintains a competitive edge over other markets. A list of the research FCUSA find most important (as expressed through funding) can be read here.

Vaccine production

According to a Fur Commission USA poll, a disease outbreak is their second biggest fear as fur farmers (after attacks by animal rights activists). An aluetian disease outbreak can wipe out a mink farm in a matter of weeks. There are two companies producing vaccines: Merck (doing mink research at their suburban Omaha research farm) and United Vaccines (three locations around Madison, WI).

Processing plants

Right now there is a severe shortage of facilities able to process raw animal skins. Currently, the only large-scale operation is the North American Fur Auctions processing plant in Stoughton, Wisconsin (near Madison). This plant has trouble handling current volume, and is an extremely significant lynchpin.

Fur Farm List

Part One: Mink Farms (+more)

New mink farm and fur farm supplier addresses. This list compiles all fur industry addresses discovered since The Blueprint 2010 Supplement. Research done by FinalNail.com and Coalition Against Fur Farms.

Part Two: Fox Farms

New fox farm addresses. This list of 90 fox farms was released anonymously by the Fur Farm Intelligence Unit in July of 2012. Our preliminary research into these addresses shows many to either be closed, or not have animals at the addresses given. More research is needed by local activists to make this list as accurate as possible.

Part Two: Fox Farm Addresses

Released by the Fur Farm Intelligence Unit

In 2012, an anonymous group calling itself the Fur Farm Intelligence Unit (not to be confused with the Fur Farm Intelligence Project) released the biggest list of fox farms to date. The list includes 92 previously-unpublished addresses of what are believed to be fox farms.

The message that accompanied the list reads, in part:

"Fox farm addresses are very scarce, and this list more than quadruples the number of known fox farms in the United States. The release of this list follows 60 new mink farm addresses which were made public by above-ground groups last month. The first half of 2012 has already seen the largest release of new fur farm intelligence since the 1990s."

Included in the list are what may be previously unknown fox farms in the following states:

Idaho: 1 Iowa: 7 Illinois: 9 Indiana: 5 Maine: 1 Michigan: 8 Minnesota: 19 Missouri: 1 North Dakota: 2 Nebraska: 2 New York: 6 Ohio: 3

Pennsylvania: 8 South Dakota: 1

Utah: 1 Virginia: 1 Wisconsin: 15

The addresses don't appear to have been investigated, and Coalition Against Fur Farms is calling on activists across the country to drive by these farms and report to us what you see so this list can be as accurate as possible.
